Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

- 1) ☒ Responsive to communication(s) filed on 26 April 2004.
- 2a) ☒ This action is FINAL. 2b) ☐ This action is non-final.
- 3) ☐ Since this application is in condition for allowance except for formal matters, prosecution as to the merits is closed in accordance with the practice under Ex parte Quayle, 1935 C.D. 11, 453 O.G. 213.

DETAILED ACTION

Status of Claims

1. Applicant has amended claims 1 and 20 in the amendment filed 26 April 2004. Claims 16-19 were previously canceled.. Thus, claims 1-15 and 20 remain pending and are again presented for examination.

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-15 and 20 have been considered but are either not persuasive or moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

3. Applicant argues that the prior art does not disclose a quantification that divides the subscription fees of the plurality of users based on an updated metric of the type defined in part three. In reviewing claim 1, for example, examiner submits that part three does not offer a specific definition of updated metric other than suggesting that the metric is obtained by statistical convolution. Examiner submits that Fleming discloses convoluting an updated metric of use into respective materials records in the database based upon various sampling and statistical techniques which are known in the art (Figure 10; Col. 12 line 28-Col. 13 line 10). Danielle further discloses a method to measure and accrue copyright royalties and teaches a well known method of determining royalty payments based upon a sampled survey of user's copier usage wherein a user pays a subscription fee for estimated copyright copies (Figure 1; Col. 1 line 32-Col. 2 line 13). Daniele shows statistically convoluting an updated metric of use by analyzing the sample of use and quantifying royalties to authors and publishers based on the sample and updated metric and further dividing the subscription fees of the users and allocating the fees to the appropriate rightsholders

Priority

4. Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Art Unit: 3621

Drawings

5. The corrected or substitute drawings were received on 06 May 2003. These drawings are approved by the examiner.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 1-12, 15 and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fleming, III, U.S. Patent No. 6,230,204 B1 in view of Daniele, EPO 649 074 A1, published April 1995 and McConnell, U.S. Patent No. 4,232,295.

As per Claims 1-6 and 20, Fleming, III discloses a business method for quantifying royalty owner rights, the method including a computerized system performing the substantially asynchronous transactional steps of:

- maintaining a registry of a plurality of users (Figure 10; Col. 3, lines 55-63; Col. 4, lines 37-40; Col. 6, lines 52-65);
- providing materials including audio and visual contents and computer software to users by downloading via a distributed data-communications topology (Figure 1; Col. 2, lines 32-46; Col. 3, lines 57-65; Col. 4, lines 23-45 and 52-61; Col. 5, lines 20-35);
- maintaining a database of materials provided by the system to users of the plurality of users (Figure 10);
- using a substantially packet-based protocol over a distributed data communications topology, communicating with a user of the plurality of users (Figures 1-2);

Art Unit: 3621

- from the user, accepting a report of the users prior use of materials provided by the system, the report being a sample of the prior use by the plurality of users (Col. 3 line 57-Col. 4 line 4; Col. 5, lines 53-59; Col. 6, lines 1-5; Col. 7, lines 45-50; Col. 9, lines 30-35 and 57-61);

- from data in the report, convoluting an updated metric of use into respective materials records in the database (Figure 10; Col. 12 line 28-Col. 13 line 10); and

Fleming, III, however, fails to specifically disclose wherein the plurality of users pay subscription fees to access the database and computing a quantification of royalty owner rights for at least one of the respective materials, said quantification serving to divide the subscription fees of the plurality of users based on the updated metric

Daniele discloses a method to measure and accrue copyright royalties and teaches a well known method of determining royalty payments based upon a sampled survey of user's copier usage wherein a users pays a subscription fee for estimated copyright copies (Figure 1; Col. 1 line 32-Col. 2 line 13).

Daniele shows statistically convoluting an updated metric of use by analyzing the sample of use and quantifying royalties to authors and publishers based on the sample and further dividing the subscription fees of the users and allocating the fees to the appropriate rightsholders. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of applicant's invention to modify the method of Fleming and provide the ability to compute royalty payments for the owners of the information used as taught by Daniele. Daniele provides motivation by indicating that determining royalty payments using sampling techniques is old and well known and that this method prevents organizations from the requirement to determine the royalty fee for each particular job such as a transaction based system (Col. 1 line 34-Col. 2 line 18). Fleming also provides motivation by indicating that tracking the usage is useful in determining viewing charges assessed by the file owner (Col. 1 line 55-Col. 2 line 15).

Fleming further fails to disclose dividing the collective subscription fees of the plurality of users. McConnell discloses a jukebox polling system and further disclose that operation of the jukebox requires the purchase of a license by the operator. The license requires the payment of a royalty fee to the Register of Copyrights which is ultimately distributed to parties having claims to the royalties wherein each claimant may obtain a pro rata share of the fees to which the copyright owner proves entitlement

Art Unit: 3621

(Col. 1, lines 14-27). McConnell further discloses that the system automatically collects and compiles data from statistically designated jukeboxes located at remote geographic locations and uses this data to provide statistics to be used in the determination of the proper distribution of funds received from jukebox licensing fees (Col. 1, lines 50-58 and Col. 1 line 67-Col. 2 line 3). Thus, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of applicant's invention to modify the method of Fleming and Danielle and divide the collective subscription fees of the plurality of users as taught by McConnell in order to properly distribute the collective funds received from licensing or subscription fees based upon a statistical sampling of usage.

As per Claim 7, Fleming fails to explicitly disclose accepting a request for downloading a plurality of substantially new materials. However, Fleming does disclose that the materials are accessed on the World Wide Web (Col. 4, lines 25-35) and examiner takes Official Notice that requesting new information to be downloaded by the user is well known in the art. Thus, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art, in view of the teachings of Fleming, to allow the user to request a download of new materials when the user wants to view or access additional documents or information as they desire.

As per Claim 8, Fleming further disclose wherein accepting a report of the users prior use includes an accounting of use since a most recent prior accepting from the user of a report of the users prior use (Col. 9, lines 50-55).

As per Claim 9, Fleming further discloses wherein accepting a report of the user's prior use includes an accounting of cumulative use, substantially since becoming a user (Col. 9, lines 50-55).

As per Claim 10, Fleming further disclose accepting a report of the users prior use including an accounting of the users recent use during a predetermined period of time (Col. 9, lines 50-55).

Art Unit: 3621

As per Claim 11, Fleming further discloses wherein maintaining a registry includes a respective profile for each user of a preponderance of the users in the registry (Col. 6 line 52-Col. 7 line 10).

As per Claim 12, Fleming further disclose wherein convoluting includes correlating the updated metric with the respective user profile (Figures 9-10).

As per Claim 15, Fleming further discloses wherein apportioning is extrapolated to represent use by the entire plurality of users (Figure 10 and associated text).

8. Claims 13-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fleming, III, U.S. Patent No. 6,230,204 B1, Daniele, EPO 649 074 A1, published April 1995 and McConnell, U.S. Patent No. 4,232,295 as applied above and further in view of Logan et al, U.S. Patent No. 6,199,076 B1.

As per Claims 13-14, Fleming, Danielle and McConnell fail to disclose wherein the computing includes a predetermined contractual based apportioning of royalty owner rights for reported use of respective materials by the user. Logan et al disclose a predetermined contractual based apportioning of royalty owner rights for reported used of respective materials by the user (Col. 21, lines 27-60 and Col. 28, lines 24-55). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of applicant's invention to modify the method of Fleming and Daniele and compute the royalty owner rights based on contractual based apportioning as taught by Logan et al in order to compensate the royalty owners based upon predetermined contracts.

Conclusion

8. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

Art Unit: 3621

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.

9. Examiner's Note: Examiner has cited particular columns and line numbers in the references as applied to the claims below for the convenience of the applicant. Although the specified citations are representative of the teachings in the art and are applied to the specific limitations within the individual claim, other passages and figures may apply as well. It is respectfully requested from the applicant, in preparing the responses, to fully consider the references in entirety as potentially teaching all or part of the claimed invention, as well as the context of the passage as taught by the prior art or disclosed by the examiner.

10. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

- Leinonen [WO 98/06047] disclose a system for computing fees for use of intellectual property
- Delicostopoulou, Andromachi, "Private Copying in Greece" discloses gathering royalty payments and dividing these among creators and publishers

11. The prior art previously made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

- Gennusa, Chris R., "BMI Is Here to Stay", discloses that accounting firms typically determine royalties based upon annual samples of U.S. commercial radio-station broadcasts

Art Unit: 3621

- Barritz [5,499,340] discloses a method for computer program usage monitoring and teach a method for accumulating information regarding utilization of various products and versions, and to determine usage patterns by monitoring usage during sampling periods
- Sohraby et al disclose a resource usage measurement system and teach measuring during a sampling interval and these actual measurements are extrapolated to estimate the usage over the larger sampling interval
- Rossides discloses a system for estimating royalties due to a person based upon historical information
- Archibald et al disclose a method that accounts for usage of digital applications and teach the use of a meter module to generate accounting information related to usage of content and routing this accounting information to a collection agency which credits the publishers
- INDATA [WO 90/02382] discloses an information distribution system and charges the user only for selected information provided. Use fees are accumulated by the user only for information that has been received and the user transmits the accumulated use fees to a central accounting office so that payments can be made to the creators of the content
- Ginter et al disclose transmitting usage reports from the user to a billing entity/clearinghouse and handling of payments of royalties to the content creators
- Dillon discloses an electronic document distribution system including a deferred billing mechanism
- Reeder discloses a usage monitor for monitoring usage of software and communicating the usage information to a central billing station
- Kazmierczak et al disclose a system wherein data usage is metered locally and recorded as a stored data usage record and is later reported by modem to an operations center
- Coffey et al disclose a computer use meter and analyzer for measuring and reporting the use of a computer
- Wolfe et al disclose a system for delivering music and ads to subscribers, determines frequency of play/use and bills advertisers and provides royalties to content providers

Art Unit: 3621

- Taub et al disclose a system for downloading content to schools wherein the school's main computer tracks usage and occasionally reports the usage for payments of royalty.
